PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

This program offers providers and administrators in post-acute/long-term care facilities an opportunity to participate in discussions on topics vital to their practice setting, including the prescription of opioids, billing and coding procedures, medication resection, and the utilization of data analysis for improving patient care in nursing homes or long-term care facilities.

OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

- Understand the contributing factors to the opioid epidemic and care practitioners' roles to address the opioid epidemic
- Appreciate the complexities associated with billing and know how to navigate its complexities
- Identify how to perform medication resection necessary to reduce pharmaceutical burdens and improve quality of life for post-acute and long-term care patients
- Explain how to utilize run-charts and control charts to analyze data in order to implement strategic initiatives in long-term care facilities

TARGET AUDIENCE

This program is directed towards medical directors, attending physicians, physician assistants, advance practice nurses, directors of nursing, registered nurses, certified nursing assistants, and other health care professionals practicing in long-term care.
